TAFT SENT HANLY
INTO DRY RANKSCandidate Tells Why He Quit
Republicans — Prohib
Only Progressives.

"The prohibition party is the only progressive party in the country," said J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana, and now the prohibition candidate for president, in an address before an audience of 500 people at the high school Tuesday night. Hanly said that the party was progressive because it alone stood for the abolition of one of the greatest vices and curses of all time, alcohol.

Besides Hanly, Ira Landrith, candidate for vice president, Oliver W. Stewart, chairman of the prohibition national campaign committee, W. H. Hickman, candidate for United States senator from Indiana and J. Raymond Smith, state chairman addressed the meeting.

When the candidate for president entered the auditorium the audience saluted him by rising to its feet and cheering. When he was ready to speak he received the chautauqua salute. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and every utterance of the speaker was applauded.

Why He Quit Republicans.

Hanly said that he had repudiated the republican party because they refused to repudiate the statement made by Ex-President Taft that it was idle to amend the constitution of the United States in regard to the liquor traffic because it could not be enforced. He told of the attempt to get the republicans to disavow the statement and of their refusal and then of the attempt to get the democratic party to oppose the traffic and its refusal.

The speaker denounced the two big parties as surrendering every decent right at every just consideration for the sake of the people of the country to this "great monster, which causes loss of life, health and reputation and brings misery and suffering to millions of homes."

In discussing this issue, Hanly said: "The essence, the soul of American liberty lies in the right of the American citizen to choose for themselves policies of state, and, having chosen, the right to have their choice effectuated. All there is in American liberty is comprehended in that sentence. If an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting the liquor traffic or any other amendment made in the orderly, thoughtful process provided for amending the constitution, cannot be enforced when made, then representative constitutional government falls in this nation."

National Option Remedy.

National and not state or local option was declared by Hanly to be the only way to stamp out the liquor traffic throughout the United States. The local or state measure does not cover enough territory to make it effective and it driven out of homes moves to another locality. The traffic must be entirely wiped out of the country in order to put a stop to it.

In discussing the other issues of the campaign Hanly said that the prohibition party stood for a "broad, comprehensive program of legislation." He said that it stood for the rights of women to vote and believed that the question was a national one and not state. "If the black man of the south was a fit person to earn the right of ballot through bloodshed, then the white woman of the north is far more fit."

A "reasonable military preparedness," enough to insure this country from invasion and defend ourselves on land and sea, was advocated by Hanly. "Military and human freedom are incompatible here and everywhere," said the speaker.

Loathe to Intervene.

Maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and the proper handling of the affairs which it thrusts upon this nation and an aversion to intervention in Mexico unless it was absolutely necessary to prevent the loss of American life and property was voiced by the speaker.

A new record for expediency in the transaction of the city's business was set last night when a common council meeting was held in four minutes and a meeting of the committee of the whole in scarcely three minutes. Between the time of the reading of the special call of the mayor for a meeting of the common council and the move for adjournment of the meeting of the committee of the whole eight minutes elapsed. The extra minute was wasted in a recess while Mayor Keller, explained to the then committee of the whole the need of the building department for $1,500.

Landrith's Wit is Keen.

Ira Landrith, candidate for vice president, closed the speaking program of the evening. Landrith is one of the best political speakers who has appeared in South Bend during the campaign. He is witty and turns his wit into keen points for his arguments in favor of prohibition. After he had talked for some time along the same line as Hanly, he closed his address by a spirited plea for the stamping out of the liquor traffic and voiced the opinion that the United States would be entirely free of the traffic within eight years.

William Maurer, county chairman of the prohibition party, presided. Announcement was made of the visit of the "Prohibition Flyer" to South Bend, Oct. 20, at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Albert Stanley, candidate for lieutenant governor, and J. M. Jolly, of South Bend, candidate for state senator, will be the speakers on the special.

A delegation of 120 was present from Nappanee while a representation of 40 was sent to the meeting by Wakarusa prohibitionists.

To Make Your Hair
Look Naturally Curly

After shaking the hair down and brushing it out, apply a little liquid shimmer with a clean tooth brush, and then roll the hair in curlers. This produces a beautiful curl and waves as you could wish for, perfectly natural in appearance, and they will last a long time. The full effect is secured within three hours, though some prefer to keep the hair down all over night.

A few ounces of liquid shimmer—which can be used for hair at any dressing—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed.—Adv.

There is a Real Difference

Cream of tartar, derived from grapes, is used in Royal Baking Powder because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.
